RESUME OF DAVID VINCENT LAMM

David Lamm was born in Pipestone, Minnesota on 8 November 1941. He attended the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis where he majored in History and Political Science and received the degree of Bachelor of Arts in December 1964. He attended the graduate program in the School of Government and Business Administration at the George Washington University receiving a Master of Business Administration in February 1972. His thesis focused on the relationship between the contract administration and contract audit organizations and functions in the Department of Defense. He received the Doctor of Business Administration also from the George Washington University where he studied Procurement & Production, Management of Science and Technology, Applied Economics, and Administrative Theory and Practice. He received the DBA in February 1976. His dissertation examined the implementation and administration of Cost Accounting Standards.

He is a Naval Supply Corps Officer (currently selected for CDR) and is a former enlisted man. In the latter capacity he served primarily as a recruit instructor. Upon commissioning, he served at the Navy Finance Center, Cleveland; Supply Officer, USS VIRGO (AE-30); Defense Logistics Agency Headquarters; and Naval Air Systems Command Headquarters where he managed several contracting officers.

He joined the faculty of the Naval Postgraduate School in August 1978 and taught graduate courses on a part-time basis for GWU during the year previous to his assignment at NPS. His teaching experience has emphasized acquisition management, systems acquisition, project management, contract pricing and negotiations, contract administration, and acquisition policy. His research has centered on acquisition and contracting issues at the Federal Government level and in industry. He currently holds the academic rank of Assistant Professor.

He is a member of the National Contract Management Association (NCMA), the American Defense Preparedness Association (ADPA), The American Society of Military Comptrollers (ASMC), and the Association for Science, Technology and Innovation (ASTI). He is an examination grader for the Certified Professional Contracts Management (CPCM) examination, is a member of the editorial board for the National Contract Management Quarterly Journal, and is Director of the Monterey Peninsula Chapter of NCMA.
